Another Land Grant Case Won by the Settlers.

The News Extends Congratulations to Judge Wolverton.

Hurrah for Judge Wolverton of Portland Oregon, who signed a decree last week in the Southern Pacific railroad land grant case forfeiting to the U. S. government 2,075,616 acres of land in the Willamette Valley Oregon. The decree of forfeiture is based on the failure of the Southern Pacific company to sell to settlers the land granted by Congress in 1870 at a stipulated price of $2.50 per acre. The case will go to the United States supreme court.

The senior editor of this paper extends congratulations to the Judge and settlers, being as we had the same kind of a fight with the same company in southwest New Mexico 25 years ago. We won, however, but it took all the democratic red hair and the averdupois of President Grover Cleveland to do it.
